

Higher Pay Rates, Not Immigration Rates

Three quarters of respondents believe that businesses should attract workers through higher wages, not recruiting from the immigration lines. This also represents an opportunity for a positive populist message that demonstrates a market-based solution to immigration and to raise workers' pay apart from the minimum wage.

If U.S. businesses have trouble finding workers, what should happen?

	Total	Men	Women	Whites	Blacks	Hispanics	Republicans	Democrats	Independents
They should raise wages and improve working conditions to attract Americans	75%	71%	78%	73%	86%	71%	74%	79%	74%
More immigrant workers should be allowed into the country to fill these jobs	8%	8%	8%	8%	3%	11%	6%	8%	8%

Nationwide Survey: 1,008 adults 8/7-10/14

the polling company, inc.
WomanTrend

Kellyanne Conway
August, 14 2014